1. Natureの文献を開き、Access through your institution をクリックする。

The screenshot shows the Nature Medicine website. The article title is "Developing cell therapies for lupus" by Joan T. Merrill & Judith A. James. On the right side, there is a blue button labeled "Access through your institution" which is highlighted with a red rectangular box. Below it is a smaller button labeled "Buy or subscribe". The page also includes navigation links like "nature", "nature medicine", "news & views", and "article".

2. Find your institution にtokai と入力し、TOKAI UNIVERSITY をクリックする。

The screenshot shows the Springer Nature "Access through your institution" page. It prompts the user to "Find your institution:" and provides a search input field. The text "tokai" is entered into the field, and a dropdown menu shows "TOKAI UNIVERSITY" as a suggestion. Below the search field, there is a link that says "Alternatively, log in with your Springer Nature account". The page also includes a "Return to Springer Nature Link" at the top and a footer with links for "Accessibility statement", "Privacy policy", "Your US state privacy rights", and "Terms and conditions".
